

私家醫生不再獲免費提供新冠藥物

新冠已成為常見的呼吸道病毒感染。一般來說，普通市民感染新冠病毒的徵狀大多較為輕微。同時，今年經私家醫生免費處方予合資格新冠確診病人的新冠口服藥物按月平均處方數量較過去兩年明顯下降。考慮到以上因素，政府於七月二十九日中止疫情期間開始向私家醫生免費提供新冠口服藥物，以供醫生處方予合資格病人的特別安排。

政府已提醒私家醫生如打算為病人提供已於本港註冊的新冠口服藥物，可自行直接從藥商訂購，處方予病人並收取費用。

有臨床需要的市民可向其家庭醫生查詢新冠口服藥物的供應情況及收費或透過普通科門診電話預約系統或醫院管理局（醫管局）一站式手機程式「HA Go」內的「預約普通科門診」功能，預約普通科門診服務。醫管局轄下的普通科門診診所會繼續按照其治療指引，處方相關藥物予合資格有臨床需要的新冠確診病人。詳情請瀏覽普通科門診網頁：www.ha.org.hk/goto/gopc/tc。

Private doctors will no longer be provided with free COVID-19 drugs

COVID-19 has become a common respiratory viral infection. For the general public, symptoms of SARS-CoV-2 infections are generally mild. Meanwhile, the monthly average number of treatment courses of COVID-19 oral antiviral drugs prescribed by private doctors to eligible COVID-19 confirmed patients this year has dropped significantly compared to the past two years. Taking into account the above factors, the Government ceases the special arrangement of providing free oral antiviral drugs to private doctors for prescribing to eligible patients, which has been in place during the pandemic on July 29.

The Government has reminded private doctors that if they intend to provide patients with COVID-19 oral antiviral drug registered in Hong Kong, they can order them directly from the drug dealer, prescribe the drug to patients and charge them.

Members of the public with clinical needs may approach their family doctors to enquire about the availability and charges of COVID-19 oral antiviral drugs or make appointments for general out-patient clinic (GOPC) services through the GOPC Telephone Appointment System or the "Book GOPC" function on the Hospital Authority's (HA) one-stop mobile application "HA Go". GOPCs under the HA will continue to prescribe the relevant drugs to eligible COVID-19 confirmed patients with clinical needs according to their treatment guidelines. For more details of the GOPC services, please visit the GOPC website: www.ha.org.hk/goto/gopc/en.
